

Superpowered opinions

Where to start: This prompt gives kids practice writing about their opinions, and lets them use their imagination, too. Start with a conversation about super powers. How many can they think of? Which are the most useful? The most fun?

Prompt: What's the best superpower? What would you do if you had that power?

How to go deeper: How could you use that power to help other people? Could it be used to solve a problem the world is facing? (Use the back of this page to write.)
