

Question marks

We use a question mark at the end of a sentence that asks a question.
A question mark takes the place of a period.

Write a period or a question mark at the end of each sentence below. Then write the whole sentence.

Do you like dogs

I like dogs a lot

I like cats also

Do you like them

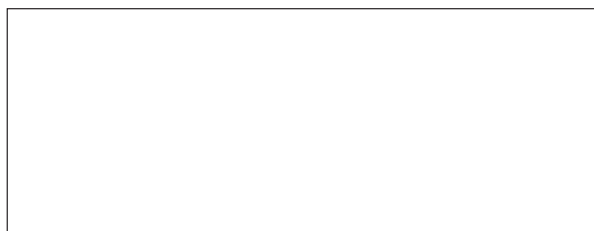

Do you have a pet

What is your pet's name

My pet is called Kit

I love my pet

First draw pictures, then answer the questions below.

Draw another mouse.
Are there two or three mice now?

Draw a cat.
Does it have a tail?

Question marks

We use a question mark at the end of a sentence that asks a question.
A question mark takes the place of a period.

Write a period or a question mark at the end of each sentence below.
Then write the whole sentence.

Do you like dogs? ...Do you like dogs?.....

I like dogs a lot. ...I like dogs a lot.....

I like cats also. ...I like cats as well.....

Do you like them? ...Do you like them?.....

Do you have a pet? ...Do you have a pet?.....

What is your pet's name? ...What is your pet's name?.....

My pet is called Kit. ...My pet is called Kit.....

I love my pet. ...I love my pet.....

First draw pictures, then answer the questions below.

Draw another mouse.

Are there two or three mice now? two.....

Draw a cat.

Does it have a tail? yes.....

Punctuation helps reading and writing accuracy. Explain that punctuation marks help us make sense of text and how a question mark indicates a question. It will help if you say each sentence as a flat statement and then as a question.